We will also read academic articles. You can download these articles on JSTOR.org using any computer hooked into the CSUF network or through the CSUF library website.

Course Requirements
The course will consist of one “mid-term” examination, a final examination, and one term paper. There will be no make-up examinations. If the mid-term is missed, the final will carry the additional weight if and only if a valid excuse (e.g., doctor’s note) is presented.

The term paper is due in class on the date listed below. I will accept papers without penalty up through the end of the class period. Any papers turned in after this time will be accepted, but will carry a penalty of 10 points per day (unless, of course, you have a valid, documented excuse).

Course Goals
This course is aimed at facilitating critical thinking. This class will provide: 1) a general overview of important events and periods in the economic history of the U.S.; 2) an analysis of important historical events from an economic viewpoint. The term paper should include both of these elements, especially the latter.

General Education Information
This course meets the University’s General Education requirement in Category D.5, Explorations in Social Sciences. The learning goals include:

- Examine problems and issues in the social sciences in a variety of cultural, historical, and geographical contexts, and from different disciplinary and interdisciplinary perspectives.
- Apply theories and concepts from the social sciences to address contemporary and future problems confronting communities at different geographical scales, from local to global.
- Analyze and evaluate critically the application of social science concepts and theories to particular problems or themes, such as economic and environmental sustainability, globalization, poverty, and social justice.
- Understand constructs of cultural differentiation, including ethnicity, gender, race, and social class, and their effects on the individual and society.
Academic Dishonesty
Academic dishonesty includes such things as cheating, inventing false information or citations, plagiarism, and helping someone else commit an act of academic dishonesty. It usually involves an attempt by a student to show possession of a level of knowledge or skill which he or she does not possess.

Cheating is defined as the act of obtaining or attempting to obtain credit for work by the use of any dishonest, deceptive, fraudulent or unauthorized means. Examples of cheating include, but are not limited to:

1) Using notes or aids or the help of other students on tests and examinations in ways other than those expressly permitted by the instructor

2) Plagiarism as defined below, tampering with the grading procedures, and collaborating with others on any assignment where such collaboration is expressly forbidden by an instructor.

Plagiarism is defined as the act of taking the specific substance of another and offering it as one’s own without giving credit to the source. When sources are used, acknowledgment of the original author or source must be made following standard scholarly practice.

Term Paper
The topic of your term paper can cover any period or event in U.S. economic history. It should be 7-10 pages long and include data analysis. You will be required to stop by my office at least once two weeks prior to the due date to discuss your paper topic. This office visit will count towards your class participation grade.

Students with Disabilities
The University requires students with disabilities to register with the Office of Disabled Student Services (DSS), located in UH-101 and at (657) 278 – 3117, in order to receive prescribed accommodations appropriate to their disability. Students requesting accommodations should inform the instructor during the first week of classes about any disability or special needs that may require specific arrangements/accommodations related to attending class sessions, completing course assignments, writing papers or quizzes/tests/examinations.
